VARANASI

Varanasi is one of the oldest living cities of the world. It encapsulates all the rituals and symbols of hindu culture and religion. Where other cities of India are interested in modernizing, Varanasi is interested in preserving traditions. Varanasi is the home of sadhus and saints, pundits and pilgrims, yogis and "bogeys". It is full of contradictions and complexities for which India is famous. It is overwhelming in its noise, but peaceful in the purity of those who come for worship. Varanasi will cast its spell on you. You will be lured into its palace of myths, legends and beliefs. You will be caught in the silken web of music, rituals and folklore. It is representative of India in that it is microcosm of all that is unique about hindu culture, it is not representative of India in that there is no other city in India like it.
